Where to Tap into the Quiet Life Travel Trend

Need an escape from the constant chatter surrounding your everyday life? Quiet Life Travel is currently on the rise, offering solitude seekers the opportunity to reconnect with Mother Nature and themselves away from the hustle and bustle.

Here are some dreamy resorts and destinations tapping into the art of quietude for those looking to book a serene wellness getaway away from it all.

Pockets of Tranquility on a Private Stretch of Island at Caerula Mar Club in South Andros

As the only hotel on the entire northeast side of the sleepy island of South Andros, Bahamas, Caerula Mar Club offers guests the illusion of having a whole island to themselves. With luxe amenities and breezy outdoor living spaces that immerse guests in the untouched beauty of the island, this adults-only escape is sure to evoke a sense of barefoot luxury in all who visit.

When a little quiet me-time is in order, explore the secluded 10 acres of property to discover the little pockets of tranquillity designed and strategically placed by HGTV celebrity couple Sarah and Bryan Baeumler.
